

DUTCH FLAT ENQUIRER.

SATURDAY MORNING, JULY 9, 1864.

DIVINE SERVICE.—The Rev. Father James I. Collins will celebrate mass in the school house at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning.

THE FOURTH.—This ever memorable day was ushered in by the firing of cannon and beating of drums; those engaged in firing the morning salute appeared to be extra patriotic, thinking, doubtless, that as our military had left town it was necessary that those who remained should evince an increased amount of feeling for the natal day of our nation, so they fired about one hundred guns as a salute. At nine o'clock the school children met at the school house and under the guidance of the Superintendent Mr. Davis and the committee of ladies belonging to the Mito Society, were marched up in front of the Express office, being escorted by the Union Sunday School Guard, under command of Capt. Schubert. On arriving at the place designated, Miss Brown, attended by twelve young misses, who by herself, represented the thirteen original States, stepped out with the beautiful banner which had been purchased by the ladies and addressed Captain Schubert as follows:

CAPTAIN SCHUBERT.—Permit me, on the part of my admittance, to present through you, to the Dutch Flat, "Union Guard," this emblem of our Nation's pride, honor and independence; hoping that the bright stars and beautiful stripes of which it is composed may impress upon the mind of each member that ardent devotion and patriotic love for free government, as well as indelible stamp the heart with a zeal for its perpetuation and progress, that no citizen will be able to erase, and no circumstance cause you and your gallant little band to lose sight of.

And remember that the weaker sex who, relying upon your integrity and seal, your warm attachment for the principles of free Republican institutions, which are daily being taught you, that when you grow up to "man's estate" the donors may have no cause to regret that they chose you as the defenders of a flag that throws protection over all who gather under its ample folds.

After which, Capt. Schubert gallantly stepped forward, bowed and received the flag, in doing which, he made the following patriotic reply:

MISS MATILDA BROWN.—In behalf of the Dutch Flat "Union Guard," I thank you for this beautiful flag. As American boys we thank you for what we have been taught that, under its stars and stripes George Washington fought for American independence.

We were indeed to receive this sacred emblem from the hands of our fair school-mates. This is the sum of all honors which young ladies may know. A citizen might pause to hesitatingly express the gratitude we feel; and stand before you, fair school-mates, unable to do more than repeat again the heartfelt thanks of my little band. A soldier is not necessarily an orator; it is one thing to engage your enemies and another thing to engage your friends. We are about to do in our present armor, to engage our friends. Being the only representation remaining in town we have marched out determined to do all in our power to keep alive the spirit of American liberty. This, as the rising generation, it behooves us to do; for, our birthright is in danger—the proud privilege which American citizens have so long enjoyed of life, freedom and the pursuit of happiness, are all now threatened; therefore we youthfully are armed as emblematic of our devotion to the cause of our country, and we will yield a real weapon in its defense. I thank you, O Lord, through our brave army, that this may not be so.

MISS MATILDA BROWN.—Be assured that our love for this flag shall grow with our growth, and we will protect and defend it at home and abroad, whether assailed by American traitor or foreign prince or potentate. Also please be assured that the honor conferred upon us to-day by our school-mates whom you represent will long be cherished by myself and the soldiers of my command.

Both the presentation and the reply was exceedingly well done, far beyond the years, either of Miss Brown or the youth Schubert, and gave general satisfaction. The last fourth of July will doubtless linger as a green spot in the memories of all those who participated in the exercises. After the presentation the assembly was called to order by Wm. C. Richmond, Esq., who introduced E. B. Boust, as the reader of the Declaration of Independence. After the reading of this "bill of Rights" of the American people, L. B. Arnold, Esq., was introduced and delivered a brilliant, patriotic address. At the close of the address a salute of thirteen guns was fired, and the assembly adjourned to the Antelope Restaurant where the ladies had prepared a sumptuous dinner. The dinner was well patronized, the ladies realizing something near three hundred dollars clear of expenses. In the afternoon the "Calumet" was turned out in all their splendor and brilliancy, to the amusement and immense gratification of all beholders, and satisfaction to themselves. The day passed off without a single incident calculated to mar the good feeling of our people. At sundown a national salute was fired, and the votaries of Terapichlore then commenced making preparations for the dance which came off in the evening, and was attended by the beauty and fashion of the place and neighborhood. The dance was kept up all the small hours of the morning, when all adjourned highly satisfied with the exercises. Thus passed the eighty-eighth anniversary of American Independence, in our town; everything being conducted in "goodness and in order," good feeling and good cheer prevailing to an unlimited extent, satisfying every one, and promoting that fraternal regard and deep reverence for the patriotic spirit and the glorious institutions which they bequeathed to posterity which should ever animate the heart of the American citizen, when enjoying the blessings of our free government.

WILSON & ZOYARA'S CIRCUS.—This mammoth establishment will exhibit in this place on Sunday (to-morrow) evening. From the enormous given by the press of the States our people are in no danger of being "telegraphed" or "steam-bated" by this hippodrome. Alexander, the popular agent of this "horse-chester," assures us it is the best ever organized in the State. See advertisement.

PERSONAL.—Hon. W. D. Harrison, Clerk of the Supreme Court, paid our town a visit on the fourth instant. He looks well, and appears to be well satisfied with the office which he at present holds. "A good salary and little to do" ought to satisfy any man.

DR. H. R. HOSMER, formerly a resident of Little York, and at one time a member of the Legislature from Nevada county, was knocked down in San Francisco on the night of the 4th and robbed of his money, shirt-studs and boots.

WAR.—For some time the Sheriff of Placer county and the officers of the Sacramento Valley railroad have been at loggerheads in consequence of a difference of opinion existing between the two parties as to the legality of the latter taking up the rails on the Sacramento, Placer and Nevada railroad while there was an injunction forbidding the same. The undersheriff, a few days since, armed with numerous writs, shot guns, pistols, etc., paid a visit to the scene of action for the purpose of stopping the vandals in their wild career, shot off his pistol, like Kirby, after which the raiders captured him and took him to Folsom where he was paroled. The latest news from the seat of war is, that the Sheriff repaired to the field and stationed small detachments along the railroad, and waited in ambush to capture the "raiders," but before the enemy came up the Sheriff's parties became demoralized—fearing a capture in detail, should the enemy appear in force—and left for headquarters, where they arrived in good order and fine spirits, having made the best time on record. The Sheriff, it is reported, was drumming up recruits for another descent upon the enemy by a different route—the particulars of which we are not permitted to disclose, as it is intended purely as a strategic movement—and which, if successful, will result in complete victory over the enemy.

Two minutes later—the posse has just left Auburn, and will encounter the enemy as soon as they can do so with safety. The Anaconda is making his coil, and it is confidently believed in intelligent circles that the enemy cannot escape unless he gets away.

Still later—News from the front enables us to say that the enemy was seen flying towards Folsom with another car-load of rails. Our army in full pursuit, and in excellent spirits. By a strategic move coupled with a gallant charge by one of the corporals of the First, he captured thirteen of the enemy together with a stage coach and four horses, which were immediately sent to the rear. Our brave boys may now be considered veterans.

THE ALABAMA SUNK.—The following dispatch was sent from New York on the 5th and has since been confirmed. The sinking was not any too soon:

The pirate Alabama left Cherbourg, France, June 16th, to engage the Kearsarge, and attacked her six miles from shore. The engagement lasted one hour and forty minutes. Both vessels made seven complete circles in maneuvering, at a distance of 400 yards. The fight resulted in the Alabama being sunk. Semmes and a part of the crew were saved by the English yacht Deerhound. Before leaving Cherbourg, he left sixty chronometers, all his specie and ransom bonds there. No one was killed and only three wounded on the Kearsarge. Semmes is reported slightly wounded. Three of the Alabama's officers, and six of her crew were landed at Cherbourg from a French pilot boat, and also several from the British ship Acton.

The President has called upon Governor Seymour of New York for 12,000 troops to serve one hundred days, to repel a raid of the rebels who are reported to be in Maryland, 20,000 strong.

THE OPPOSITION SACRAMENTO BOAT WASHOE RUN INTO BY THE YOSEMITE, AND SUNK AT BENICIA.—There was much excitement yesterday when the opposition steamboat Washoe and the Steam Navigation Company's boat Chrysolite left for Sacramento. A large crowd had collected on wharves in the afternoon, to see the steamers go out of port. There was much maneuvering among the captains, each trying to get the advantage of leaving first. The bell of the Chrysolite rang several times as if she was ready to start, but she didn't go until the steamer Senator came in from San Pedro, and took her position on the south side of Broadway wharf. At this moment the Chrysolite started. The Washoe immediately started after her, but the Senator gently dropped out in her way, and the boat was detained for a quarter of an hour. This thwarted the Washoe behind, and when she got fairly out in the stream, the Chrysolite was ploughing through the waves at full speed on her way towards Benicia. It was not until two hours after the regular time for starting that the two steamers got under way. The race up the bay was very spirited, and the Washoe gained on the Chrysolite pretty fast.

The Washoe arrived at Benicia late in the evening, was tied up to the wharf discharging freight and passengers, when the Yosemite was despatched coming down towards Sacramento. About the time she got within forty or fifty yards of the Washoe, her engines were reversed, but not in time to stop the boat, which the next moment went crashing against the Washoe cutting her down to the water edge, and mashing her in hull. Some of the passengers on the Yosemite say that her engines were not stopped at all. As soon as the Washoe was struck, her lines were cast loose, she was headed towards the shore, and sunk in a few minutes upon the flats. Some of the passengers think that they heard groans proceeding from the Washoe, as if some one had been badly hurt by the collision. The Yosemite did not see the extent of the damage she had done, and after assistance if required, but immediately backed out from the wharf and proceeded on her journey to this city. The Washoe, we understand, is not permanently disabled, but can be repaired, and doubtless will be.

Many persons are bitterly denouncing the captain of the Yosemite, believing that he purposely ran into the boat to sink her. We are not prepared to say that this is or is not true. Innumerable stories about the affair are afloat, and whether deserved or not, curses loud and deep are being showered upon the Steam Navigation Company.—Democratic Press.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On Thursday morning June 30th, Geo. C. Peck, one of the early citizens of San Francisco, was instantly killed by being thrown from his buggy while the horse was running at full speed. The Alta says he was in company with J. W. Spamer, ex mayor for the Summer term, when near the summit of Pacheco's Pass, the horse became fractious and unmanageable, and precipitated them off the edge of the cliff, striking upon his head and fracturing his skull, he was entirely unconscious and expired immediately. Mr. Spamer in falling, struck upon the back of the horse, and so escaped unhurt. The remains of Mr. Peck were brought to the city yesterday morning and interred in his residence, corner of Sutter and Montgomery streets, from which the funeral will take place on Sunday morning, under the auspices of the Masonic Fraternity, Order of Odd Fellows, was a member. Deceased was an old and highly respected citizen of San Francisco, and had reached the age of sixty-four years. He leaves a wife, Mr. Levi Peck, and two daughters in this city.

THE REBEL PRISONERS ON JOHNSON'S ISLAND.—AN ATTEMPTED ESCAPE.—The Cleveland Leader of June 2nd, has the following:

A gentleman just from Johnson's Island furnishes us with the following valuable information in regard to a recent attempt to escape from Johnson's Island. He says that on Sunday, at half-past 9 A. M., a plot of the prisoners to escape was discovered, which had nearly been carried into effect. It seems that a plank in one of the cook houses, in the middle of one of the barracks, had been removed, and that a tunnel had been excavated with an outlet beyond the wall of the prison yard. In this hole, which was large enough to admit the passage of one man, were found three ladders, roughly constructed, three knives, notched into saws, a lot of bed-sacking, tarred so as to be waterproof, a revolver, a dark lantern made out of an old fruit can, with a hole and slide at one end, and three life-preservers, made out of tightly corked canteens, for each life-preserver, fastened to a canvas belt. The preparations for escape seemed to have been systematically conducted and nearly completed, though it is not known as yet exactly what the intentions of the plotters were, when the attempt to escape was to be made, or the number who were concerned in it. The scheme was discovered through one of the prisoners who happened to be in the hospital, and who hinted that something of the kind was going on. This led to watchfulness and search, which resulted in the discovery of the plot. We understand that the discovery caused great excitement. The roll of prisoners was called, and it was found that none were missing. The excitement continued during the day, and many visited the spot and examined the hole. It is rumored that the prisoners were so enraged at the one who had revealed their plot that there was an attempt made to hang him within the barracks, but in vain. Of course, prompt measures were taken to frustrate the designs of the conspirators.

A close-up photograph of a book's binding, showing the spine and the edges of the pages. The binding is made of a light-colored, textured material, possibly cloth or leatherette, and shows signs of wear and discoloration. The pages are yellowed and aged, with some visible text on the left edge.

A close-up photograph of a book's gutter, showing the binding structure and the edges of the pages. The pages are aged and discolored, with visible creases and wear along the spine area.

A close-up photograph of a textured, light-colored surface, possibly a book cover or endpaper. The surface has a mottled, fibrous appearance with subtle variations in tone and texture. Two prominent vertical creases or fold lines run down the center and towards the right side of the frame. On the far right, a dark, curved edge is visible, suggesting the binding or spine of a book. The lighting is soft and even, highlighting the tactile quality of the material.

A close-up, black and white photograph of a textured surface, possibly a book cover or endpaper. The image shows vertical creases and shadows, suggesting a folded or layered material. The texture is grainy and uneven, with some darker areas and lighter, more reflective patches. The lighting creates strong vertical shadows, emphasizing the depth of the creases.
